

U.S. Is Backbone of Laos Drug Trade

By Jack Anderson

The U.S. government has insisted for years that its official CIA-run airline, Air America, has not been running opium in the mountainous Asian land of Laos. But now, from the files of the CIA and other U.S. intelligence agencies, we have evidence that U.S. ground and air equipment — if not U.S. personnel — has formed the backbone of the Laos opium trade.

"Selected Royal Lao Army and Royal Lao Air Force units, utilizing air and ground equipment furnished by the United States, provide the means for protecting, transporting and processing of narcotics," reports one intelligence summary on Laos.

"A broad spectrum of Lao society is involved in the narcotics business, including Generals, Princes, high-level bureaucrats and Province Governors," says the report.

Another document complete with a secret CIA map, reports unequivocally: "Most of the refineries in Laos operate under the protection of the Royal Lao Armed Forces . . . Some reports suggest that a senior Royal Lao Armed Forces officer may hold an ownership interest in a few of these facilities."

To end narcotics running by the highest echelons of Laotian society, the documents propose drastic action.

"An important target group will be the Air Force generals and other Royal Lao Air Force personnel who command and operate the transport aircraft involved in shipping narcotics. Officials high and low who are found to be involved in a substantial way will have to be removed from positions of influence," urges the memo. It recommends curtailment of some aid to Laos.

"This is aimed specifically at eliminating the use of all U.S.-owned aircraft operated by the Royal Lao Air Force or U.S.-leased aircraft, including U.S. support items, in the transport of narcotics."

In recent months, America's spokesmen claim a new Laotian anti-heroin law is having some effect. But, in fact, only lowly opium hustlers are arrested; the generals and princes go untouched.

armed car and courier industry, a collection of small companies all over the country.

The banks would like to swallow up the industry, and the Fed has been deliberating whether to grant permission. Unwilling to play Jonah to the banks' whale, the armored car and courier companies are fighting back. As part of their counterattack, one courier firm hired Dun & Bradstreet to survey how good a job the courier companies do.

They decided to survey the Fed's own outlying banks, figuring that if the Fed's own branches liked the courier service, this would be convincing argument that the industry deserved to survive.

Dun & Bradstreet gathered 20 interviews with Fed banks before their bosses in Washington got wind of the survey.

Off went a peremptory telegram. "It appears inappropriate for officials of Federal Reserve banks and branches to express any opinions about courier services," wired Board Secretary Tynan Smith, noting that a Fed decision on the takeover was pending.

To make absolutely sure the courier survey was stymied, Smith added: "Please keep us informed if you are contacted for such information." This so intimidated the regional Fed officials that two of them, who had already given interviews, tried to withdraw them. Other officials insisted their replies be totally anonymous.

Although the survey was aborted, the courier services did get some use out of it. Based on the incomplete returns, it showed the Fed banks were generally satisfied with the private courier services.

No Spanish Allowed

A top anti-poverty official has scolded subordinates for speaking Spanish at a recent meeting that included Spanish-speaking officials.

"I was appalled," wrote operations chief James Griffith, "to hear a meeting of in-house (anti-poverty) people closed with a statement in Spanish and answered in Spanish. This was absolutely uncalled for and taken as a direct insult by the persons in attendance."

Griffith's rebuke was directed at migrant staff official Pete Merilez. Asked for an explanation, Griffith told us: "We poor gringos who don't speak Spanish sometimes get embarrassed when we hear others speak it. We get the feeling they're speaking behind our backs."

Jonah and the Whale

The Federal Reserve Board is supposed to supervise banks, not do their dirty work. But recently the Fed aided the banks in an attempt to take over an entire industry.

The victim of this power play was supposed to be the Homeowners . . . here's what you've been waiting for

MCCULLOCH

The new Mini Mac 1 chain saw—
McCulloch's lowest priced gasoline saw ever—now at Hechinger

ONLY 99.95 Just 15.00 per month*

It took McCulloch a lot of cutting to bring you the Mini-Mac 1 . . . they cut the weight, they cut the price, and they cut the nonsense! The Mini-Mac 1 weighs only 6.9 lbs., (less chain and bar) sells for under 100.00, and it's a no-nonsense chain saw that cuts just like the big ones. It can cut through a 5-inch log in just 6 seconds—and its 10 inch bar and chain cut logs up to 20" thick! It's perfect for the busy homeowner—cut trees, firewood, use it for outdoor building projects and countless other uses. It's a real chain saw value—and it's at Hechinger now! (06-9070)

*Monthly payments shown are available under Hechinger's Option Account. Monthly payments include sales taxes, where applicable, and a FINANCE CHARGE, if any. The FINANCE CHARGE will be determined by applying a monthly periodic rate of 1 1/2% to the average daily balance of the account up to $500 (18% ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE) and a monthly periodic rate of 1% to any excess thereof over $500 (12% ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE). The average daily balance will be determined by adding the outstanding balance in the account for each day of the billing cycle and dividing the total by the number of days in the billing cycle. The outstanding balance in the account for each day includes purchases or other charges, payments and other credits made during the billing cycle. NO FINANCE CHARGE will be assessed in any billing cycle in which there is no "Previous Balance" or in which payments and other credits completely clear the "Previous Balance."

Hechinger open Sunday, 9:30-6:00
All stores open late tonight 'til 9:30

HECHINGER All stores open Monday thru Saturday, 9:30—9:30

ENROLL NOW FOR FALL SEMESTER, SEPT. 12, 1972

Luther Rice College
A STUDENT ORIENTED FOUR YEAR, LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGE

PREPARE FOR A CAREER IN BUSINESS-ART-MUSIC-EDUCATION-MINISTRY

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES
SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE
V.A. APPROVED

FOR INFORMATION: Telephone 971-4476
OR WRITE TO: 5912 Franconia Road
Alexandria, Virginia 22310

One Mile South of the Capital Beltway 495, Exit 3

THE SENIOR BAPTIST COLLEGE IN THE NATIONS CAPITAL AREA

PEPSI new twist

Stock-up on 28-ounce no-return Pepsi bottles with Twist-Away resealable caps that save the sparkle.

Bottled by Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Washington, D. C., Inc. under appointment from PepsiCo, Purchase, N.Y.