

Francis Russell, 79, a Historian And a Harding Biographer, Dies

By ALBIN KREBS

Francis Russell, a historian and prolific writer whose publication in 1968 of a biography of Warren G. Harding...

In addition to the controversy over the Harding biography, "The Shadow of Blooming Grove," Mr. Russell was embroiled over a quarter of a century in arguments with other historians...

Mr. Russell wrote articles for several magazines in the United States and abroad, before joining the Canadian Army in 1941. He was discharged as a captain in 1946 and published his first book, "Three Studies in 20th Century Obscurity," in 1954.

Over the years, Mr. Russell turned out a steady string of books, marked by careful historical research combined with a distinctive and entertaining narrative style. These volumes included "The American Heritage Book of the Pioneer" (1961), "Lexington, Concord, and Bunker Hill" (1963), "The Making of the Nation" (1968), "Forty Years Ago" (1970), "A City in Terror" (1975), "The President Makers from Mark Hanna to Joseph P. Kennedy" (1976), "The Secret War" (1981) and "The Knave of Boston" (1987).

A Cache of Love Letters In the early 1960's, when Mr. Russell was living in Ohio and working on a magazine article and a biography of Harding, he was given access to more than 250 letters written by Harding to Carrie Phillips, the wife of James Phillips, a department store owner in Marion, Ohio.

He realized upon reading the letters, many of them ardent, that they gave conclusive proof that Harding had affairs with not one, but two married women while he was President. Many years before, Nan Britton had published a book maintaining she had been Harding's mistress from 1916 to 1922 and had borne him a son.

Mr. Russell used the letters in his magazine article and in his Harding biography, "The Shadow of Blooming Grove," a reference to Harding's birthplace in Ohio.

In 1964 Dr. George T. Harding 3d, a nephew of the deceased President, sued, contending that portions of the letters already published had embarrassed Mr. Harding's descendants and would continue to do so. He won a court order forbidding Mr. Russell to use the letters, and when the book was published in 1968, blank spaces appeared in portions intended to be quotes from the letters.

Mr. Russell is survived by his wife, the former Rosalind Lawson, and by a daughter from a previous marriage, Sara Russell, of Hyde Park, Mass. A funeral service is to be held tomorrow at 11 A.M. at All Saints Church in Dorchester, Mass.

many of them ardent, that they gave conclusive proof that Harding had affairs with not one, but two married women while he was President. Many years before, Nan Britton had published a book maintaining she had been Harding's mistress from 1916 to 1922 and had borne him a son.

Mr. Russell used the letters in his magazine article and in his Harding biography, "The Shadow of Blooming Grove," a reference to Harding's birthplace in Ohio.

In 1964 Dr. George T. Harding 3d, a nephew of the deceased President, sued, contending that portions of the letters already published had embarrassed Mr. Harding's descendants and would continue to do so. He won a court order forbidding Mr. Russell to use the letters, and when the book was published in 1968, blank spaces appeared in portions intended to be quotes from the letters.

Mr. Russell is survived by his wife, the former Rosalind Lawson, and by a daughter from a previous marriage, Sara Russell, of Hyde Park, Mass. A funeral service is to be held tomorrow at 11 A.M. at All Saints Church in Dorchester, Mass.

Edward Hugo Michaelsen, a corporate executive and arts enthusiast who became managing director of Carnegie Hall, died of cancer yesterday at Greenwich (Conn.) Hospital. He was 71 years old and lived in Old Greenwich.

Born in Denmark and educated in England, Mr. Michaelsen came to the United States in 1939 and a year later joined the Phelps Dodge Corporation. He eventually became chairman of the board of the Phelps Dodge Copper Products Company, of the Phelps Dodge International Corporation and of Phelps Dodge Industries Inc.

He retired in 1982 and was named chief executive officer at Carnegie Hall. A year later he resigned that post and opened an office in Manhattan to handle his philanthropic endeavors.

He is survived by his wife, Fritze; a son, John, of San Diego; two daughters, Carol Owens of Easton, Conn., and Linda Sugda of Darien, Conn.; two sisters, Lillian Lundgren and Helen Castleskiold-Benzen, both of Copenhagen and seven grandchildren.

Alan Civil, Hornist Of BBC and Beatles; Londoner Was 59

By ALLAN KOZINN

Alan Civil, a British musician who was regarded as one of the world's most accomplished soloists on the French horn, died of liver and kidney failure on Sunday at King's College Hospital in London. He was 59 years old.

Mr. Civil, who lived in London, was the principal hornist of the BBC Symphony Orchestra from 1966 until last year, when he left the ensemble because of failing health. He was also the president of the British Horn Society, a post he had taken in 1979. He was awarded the Order of the British Empire in 1985.

Besides his orchestral post, Mr. Civil was active as a soloist, chamber musician and freelance recording-session player. Although classical music lovers esteem his recordings of the Mozart Concertos (with Otto Klemperer and the Philharmonia Orchestra), the Brahms Horn Trio (with Yehudi and Hephzibah Menuhin) and the Britten Serenade (with the tenor Robert Tear), he is known to a much larger audience for the 12-second solo he played on a Beatles tune, "For No One."

Mr. Civil was born in Northampton, England, on June 13, 1929, and studied his instrument with Aubrey Brain and Willy von Stemm. He joined the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in 1953, and became its principal hornist the following year. In 1955, he moved to the Philharmonia Orchestra, and became principal hornist in 1957. He held that post until he joined the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He also taught at the Royal College of Music, founded the Alan Civil Trio, and was a member of the London Wind Quintet and the Music Group of London.

Mr. Civil's two marriages ended in divorce. He is survived by three sons, Andrew, of Perth, Australia, and Adrian and Robert, who live in England, and three daughters, Diana, Helen and Charlotte, all living in England.

Mr. Civil was born in Northampton, England, on June 13, 1929, and studied his instrument with Aubrey Brain and Willy von Stemm. He joined the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in 1953, and became its principal hornist the following year. In 1955, he moved to the Philharmonia Orchestra, and became principal hornist in 1957. He held that post until he joined the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He also taught at the Royal College of Music, founded the Alan Civil Trio, and was a member of the London Wind Quintet and the Music Group of London.

Mr. Civil's two marriages ended in divorce. He is survived by three sons, Andrew, of Perth, Australia, and Adrian and Robert, who live in England, and three daughters, Diana, Helen and Charlotte, all living in England.

Mr. Civil was born in Northampton, England, on June 13, 1929, and studied his instrument with Aubrey Brain and Willy von Stemm. He joined the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in 1953, and became its principal hornist the following year. In 1955, he moved to the Philharmonia Orchestra, and became principal hornist in 1957. He held that post until he joined the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He also taught at the Royal College of Music, founded the Alan Civil Trio, and was a member of the London Wind Quintet and the Music Group of London.

Mr. Civil's two marriages ended in divorce. He is survived by three sons, Andrew, of Perth, Australia, and Adrian and Robert, who live in England, and three daughters, Diana, Helen and Charlotte, all living in England.

Mr. Civil was born in Northampton, England, on June 13, 1929, and studied his instrument with Aubrey Brain and Willy von Stemm. He joined the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in 1953, and became its principal hornist the following year. In 1955, he moved to the Philharmonia Orchestra, and became principal hornist in 1957. He held that post until he joined the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He also taught at the Royal College of Music, founded the Alan Civil Trio, and was a member of the London Wind Quintet and the Music Group of London.

Mr. Civil's two marriages ended in divorce. He is survived by three sons, Andrew, of Perth, Australia, and Adrian and Robert, who live in England, and three daughters, Diana, Helen and Charlotte, all living in England.

Mr. Civil was born in Northampton, England, on June 13, 1929, and studied his instrument with Aubrey Brain and Willy von Stemm. He joined the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in 1953, and became its principal hornist the following year. In 1955, he moved to the Philharmonia Orchestra, and became principal hornist in 1957. He held that post until he joined the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He also taught at the Royal College of Music, founded the Alan Civil Trio, and was a member of the London Wind Quintet and the Music Group of London.

Mr. Civil's two marriages ended in divorce. He is survived by three sons, Andrew, of Perth, Australia, and Adrian and Robert, who live in England, and three daughters, Diana, Helen and Charlotte, all living in England.

Mr. Civil was born in Northampton, England, on June 13, 1929, and studied his instrument with Aubrey Brain and Willy von Stemm. He joined the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in 1953, and became its principal hornist the following year. In 1955, he moved to the Philharmonia Orchestra, and became principal hornist in 1957. He held that post until he joined the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He also taught at the Royal College of Music, founded the Alan Civil Trio, and was a member of the London Wind Quintet and the Music Group of London.

Mr. Civil's two marriages ended in divorce. He is survived by three sons, Andrew, of Perth, Australia, and Adrian and Robert, who live in England, and three daughters, Diana, Helen and Charlotte, all living in England.

Mr. Civil was born in Northampton, England, on June 13, 1929, and studied his instrument with Aubrey Brain and Willy von Stemm. He joined the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in 1953, and became its principal hornist the following year. In 1955, he moved to the Philharmonia Orchestra, and became principal hornist in 1957. He held that post until he joined the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He also taught at the Royal College of Music, founded the Alan Civil Trio, and was a member of the London Wind Quintet and the Music Group of London.

Mr. Civil's two marriages ended in divorce. He is survived by three sons, Andrew, of Perth, Australia, and Adrian and Robert, who live in England, and three daughters, Diana, Helen and Charlotte, all living in England.

Mr. Civil was born in Northampton, England, on June 13, 1929, and studied his instrument with Aubrey Brain and Willy von Stemm. He joined the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in 1953, and became its principal hornist the following year. In 1955, he moved to the Philharmonia Orchestra, and became principal hornist in 1957. He held that post until he joined the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He also taught at the Royal College of Music, founded the Alan Civil Trio, and was a member of the London Wind Quintet and the Music Group of London.

Former President Richard M. Nixon, right, and Henry A. Kissinger leaving a memorial service yesterday for John J. McCloy at the Brick Presbyterian Church at Park Avenue and 91st Street.

John J. McCloy Is Eulogized in Manhattan Service

By WILLIAM G. BLAIR

John J. McCloy, the lawyer, banker and administrator who made public affairs a life's work in the administrations of seven Presidents, was eulogized yesterday in a Manhattan church by leaders in law, finance and government from both sides of the Atlantic.

Led by a former President, Richard M. Nixon, more than 500 friends and associates of the man once described as "chairman of the Establishment" crowded into the Brick Presbyterian Church at Park Avenue and 91st Street to pay their respects to Mr. McCloy, who died Mar. 11 at the age of 93. Another 200 people crowded in the church's basement to watch the memorial service on television monitors.

During the two-hour service, nine people eulogized Mr. McCloy, whose roles in public service included being the president of the World Bank from 1947 to 1949, the United States High Commissioner for West Germany from 1949 to 1952 and chief disarmament negotiator under President Kennedy.

Among the eulogists were Secretary of State James A. Baker 3d, who brought condolences from President and Mrs. Bush; Helmut Schmidt, Chancellor of West Germany from 1974 to 1982; former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger; David Rockefeller, who succeeded Mr. McCloy as chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank in 1961, and Alexander D. Forger, chairman of Milbank, Tweed, Hadley & McCloy, the law firm in which Mr. McCloy was a partner for the last 29 years of his life.

Among the ushers were Charles McC. Mathias, the former Senator from Maryland; McGeorge Bundy, former special assistant for national security to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson; Paul A. Volcker, former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and former Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

Mr. Schmidt, who said he spoke for the German people and Government, called Mr. McCloy "our very reliable friend" who "rendered outstanding service to the world at large and to Germany in particular."

The speeches did not only focus on the accomplishments of Mr. McCloy's career. Karl Karstens, the former President of West Germany, recalled Mr. McCloy as a "wonderful teller of stories, particularly the one about God, the devil and lawyers, but perhaps I had best not tell that one here."

Mr. McCloy's young grandson, Rush Middleton McCloy, described his grandfather, who the family called "Big Poppa," as a "loving, caring man who always had a lap to crawl into." Best of all, said Rush McCloy, "if dad and mom said 'no,' I only had to ask Big Poppa."

The memorial service was presided over by the Rev. Herbert B. Anderson of the Brick Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Neely P. Towe of the Stawick Congregational Church of Greenwich, Conn. Mr. McCloy, whose wife, the former Ellen Zinsler, died in 1986, lived in Stamford, Conn.

Mr. McCloy was born in Boston on Jan. 12, 1910. He was a graduate of Bowdoin College and received a master's degree from Harvard in 1937.

Mr. Russell wrote articles for several magazines in the United States and abroad, before joining the Canadian Army in 1941. He was discharged as a captain in 1946 and published his first book, "Three Studies in 20th Century Obscurity," in 1954.

Over the years, Mr. Russell turned out a steady string of books, marked by careful historical research combined with a distinctive and entertaining narrative style. These volumes included "The American Heritage Book of the Pioneer" (1961), "Lexington, Concord, and Bunker Hill" (1963), "The Making of the Nation" (1968), "Forty Years Ago" (1970), "A City in Terror" (1975), "The President Makers from Mark Hanna to Joseph P. Kennedy" (1976), "The Secret War" (1981) and "The Knave of Boston" (1987).

A Cache of Love Letters In the early 1960's, when Mr. Russell was living in Ohio and working on a magazine article and a biography of Harding, he was given access to more than 250 letters written by Harding to Carrie Phillips, the wife of James Phillips, a department store owner in Marion, Ohio.

He realized upon reading the letters, many of them ardent, that they gave conclusive proof that Harding had affairs with not one, but two married women while he was President. Many years before, Nan Britton had published a book maintaining she had been Harding's mistress from 1916 to 1922 and had borne him a son.

of State James A. Baker 3d, who brought condolences from President and Mrs. Bush; Helmut Schmidt, Chancellor of West Germany from 1974 to 1982; former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger; David Rockefeller, who succeeded Mr. McCloy as chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank in 1961, and Alexander D. Forger, chairman of Milbank, Tweed, Hadley & McCloy, the law firm in which Mr. McCloy was a partner for the last 29 years of his life.

Among the ushers were Charles McC. Mathias, the former Senator from Maryland; McGeorge Bundy, former special assistant for national security to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson; Paul A. Volcker, former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and former Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

Mr. Schmidt, who said he spoke for the German people and Government, called Mr. McCloy "our very reliable friend" who "rendered outstanding service to the world at large and to Germany in particular."

The speeches did not only focus on the accomplishments of Mr. McCloy's career. Karl Karstens, the former President of West Germany, recalled Mr. McCloy as a "wonderful teller of stories, particularly the one about God, the devil and lawyers, but perhaps I had best not tell that one here."

Mr. McCloy's young grandson, Rush Middleton McCloy, described his grandfather, who the family called "Big Poppa," as a "loving, caring man who always had a lap to crawl into." Best of all, said Rush McCloy, "if dad and mom said 'no,' I only had to ask Big Poppa."

The memorial service was presided over by the Rev. Herbert B. Anderson of the Brick Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Neely P. Towe of the Stawick Congregational Church of Greenwich, Conn. Mr. McCloy, whose wife, the former Ellen Zinsler, died in 1986, lived in Stamford, Conn.

Mr. Russell wrote articles for several magazines in the United States and abroad, before joining the Canadian Army in 1941. He was discharged as a captain in 1946 and published his first book, "Three Studies in 20th Century Obscurity," in 1954.

Over the years, Mr. Russell turned out a steady string of books, marked by careful historical research combined with a distinctive and entertaining narrative style. These volumes included "The American Heritage Book of the Pioneer" (1961), "Lexington, Concord, and Bunker Hill" (1963), "The Making of the Nation" (1968), "Forty Years Ago" (1970), "A City in Terror" (1975), "The President Makers from Mark Hanna to Joseph P. Kennedy" (1976), "The Secret War" (1981) and "The Knave of Boston" (1987).

A Cache of Love Letters In the early 1960's, when Mr. Russell was living in Ohio and working on a magazine article and a biography of Harding, he was given access to more than 250 letters written by Harding to Carrie Phillips, the wife of James Phillips, a department store owner in Marion, Ohio.

He realized upon reading the letters, many of them ardent, that they gave conclusive proof that Harding had affairs with not one, but two married women while he was President. Many years before, Nan Britton had published a book maintaining she had been Harding's mistress from 1916 to 1922 and had borne him a son.

Mr. Russell used the letters in his magazine article and in his Harding biography, "The Shadow of Blooming Grove," a reference to Harding's birthplace in Ohio.

In 1964 Dr. George T. Harding 3d, a nephew of the deceased President, sued, contending that portions of the letters already published had embarrassed Mr. Harding's descendants and would continue to do so. He won a court order forbidding Mr. Russell to use the letters, and when the book was published in 1968, blank spaces appeared in portions intended to be quotes from the letters.

Mr. Russell is survived by his wife, the former Rosalind Lawson, and by a daughter from a previous marriage, Sara Russell, of Hyde Park, Mass. A funeral service is to be held tomorrow at 11 A.M. at All Saints Church in Dorchester, Mass.

Edward Hugo Michaelsen, a corporate executive and arts enthusiast who became managing director of Carnegie Hall, died of cancer yesterday at Greenw...

Charles Suppon, 40, a Designer And a 'Legs Diamond' Co-author

By CONSTANCE L. HAYS

Charles Suppon, a fashion designer and co-author of the musical "Legs Diamond," died yesterday at his home in Manhattan. He was 40 years old. Mr. Suppon died of brain lesions, his assistant, Bruce Cudd, said.

Mr. Suppon was the co-author with Harvey Fierstein of the book for "Legs Diamond," which closed last month on Broadway after 64 performances. The $4.25 million production, which starred Peter Allen and was unfavorably reviewed by many critics, was Mr. Suppon's only musical. Mr. Cudd said.

Mr. Suppon had been Mr. Allen's manager for the last three years and had designed costumes for his stage and cabaret shows since 1979. They collaborated in 1984 on the inception of "Legs Diamond," which was bogged down by production delays until it opened last year.

Mr. Suppon, who designed men's and women's clothes, began his fashion career as an assistant to Calvin Klein in 1978, two years after leaving to design for Intra Sport, he won a Coty American Fashion Critics Award for women's clothing.

Mr. Suppon produced sporty clothing like Bermuda shorts and roomy dresses. He also designed more unusual clothes, like a mohair blazer and a mohair sweatsuit for men, both in 1977.

In his first spring collection for women, also in 1977, he booked more than $1 million worth of business, and he booked more than $5 million for his fall collection in 1977.

"I want to do clothes for everybody in the country," Mr. Suppon once said, "not just a small group that appreciates special things."

Surviving is his mother, Louise, of Collinsville, Ill. A funeral will be held there Friday.

Esmond Austin Van Name, who was in charge of planning, design and building operations for many years at the United Nations headquarters, died Friday at his home in Garden City, L.I. He was 79 years old.

He was chief of building management services for the United Nations in the 1950's and 60's, overseeing the development of the Dag Hammarskjold Library, among other things. The architects were Harrison & Abramowitz. He was also involved as a consultant in the development of United Nations buildings in Geneva, Rome and other foreign cities. He retired from the U.N. in 1974.

Mr. Van Name, who was born in Mount Vernon, N.Y., received a Bachelor of Science degree in architectural engineering from Pratt University in Brooklyn in 1932.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy; two sons, Barry, of Queens, and Kerry, of Shoreham, L.I.; a daughter, Dorothy Lapine of Riverside, Conn.; a stepdaughter, Susan Mulhern of Los Angeles; six grandchildren and two step-grandchildren.

Other foreign cities. He retired from the U.N. in 1974.

Mr. Van Name, who was born in Mount Vernon, N.Y., received a Bachelor of Science degree in architectural engineering from Pratt University in Brooklyn in 1932.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy; two sons, Barry, of Queens, and Kerry, of Shoreham, L.I.; a daughter, Dorothy Lapine of Riverside, Conn.; a stepdaughter, Susan Mulhern of Los Angeles; six grandchildren and two step-grandchildren.

Other foreign cities. He retired from the U.N. in 1974.

Mr. Van Name, who was born in Mount Vernon, N.Y., received a Bachelor of Science degree in architectural engineering from Pratt University in Brooklyn in 1932.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy; two sons, Barry, of Queens, and Kerry, of Shoreham, L.I.; a daughter, Dorothy Lapine of Riverside, Conn.; a stepdaughter, Susan Mulhern of Los Angeles; six grandchildren and two step-grandchildren.

Other foreign cities. He retired from the U.N. in 1974.

Mr. Van Name, who was born in Mount Vernon, N.Y., received a Bachelor of Science degree in architectural engineering from Pratt University in Brooklyn in 1932.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy; two sons, Barry, of Queens, and Kerry, of Shoreham, L.I.; a daughter, Dorothy Lapine of Riverside, Conn.; a stepdaughter, Susan Mulhern of Los Angeles; six grandchildren and two step-grandchildren.

Other foreign cities. He retired from the U.N. in 1974.

Mr. Van Name, who was born in Mount Vernon, N.Y., received a Bachelor of Science degree in architectural engineering from Pratt University in Brooklyn in 1932.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy; two sons, Barry, of Queens, and Kerry, of Shoreham, L.I.; a daughter, Dorothy Lapine of Riverside, Conn.; a stepdaughter, Susan Mulhern of Los Angeles; six grandchildren and two step-grandchildren.

Deaths

ASTROFF—Mildred. The Old Westchester. Died of cancer yesterday at Greenw...

BAASUK—Albert. On behalf of the executives and staff of Baasuk Brothers Inc. we mourn the passing of our dear friend and retired colleague who devoted many years to our firm. We want to express our sympathy to the family. We wish his departure in peace, sensitivity and quiet manner.

BAUMRITTER—Louis L. The Board of Directors of the Scholarship and Welfare Fund of the Alumni Association of Hunter College reared deeply the loss of Louis Baumritter, husband of our long time and devoted Board member, Dorothy Baumritter. We express our deep sympathy to Dorothy and her family.

BETTS—Amanda S., age 96, of Baldwin, N.Y., formerly of Brookhaven, died of cancer yesterday at her home. She was a devoted wife of the late Walter. Mother of Edith Schuman and Barbara Cohen. Grandmother of Bruce and Paul Wermuth; Susan Collins; Donna Rich; Jeffrey; Linda; Meredith Cohen and five grandsons. Interment at the Fairchild Chapel, Franklin Avenue at 12th Street, New York, N.Y. Funeral service Thursday, 10 a.m., at the funeral home. Interment at the Garden City Cemetery, Brookly...

BROEMER—Catherine M. On 3/20/89, at her home, died of cancer of the late Walter. Dear mother of Katie Miller and Karin Broemer and Ruth Rosenbaum. Also survived by our grandsons, four great-grandchildren. Reposing at Fairchild Sons, 200 Northern Blvd., Manhasset, N.Y. Funeral service Wednesday, 10 a.m., at the funeral home. Interment at the Garden City Cemetery, Brookly...

CLANCY—Thomas E., died on March 17, 1989, companion of the late Bruce Granovetter. Survived by his wife, Patricia Wise and Margaret Bartsch, and several nieces and nephews. A memorial celebration will be announced. Donations may be made to Gov. Men's Health Crisis or to Hospice of South Florida.

CONFORD—Hon. Milton B. Died on March 20, 1989. Memorial service will be held on Friday, March 24th, at 1PM, at Frank E. Campbell, 1076 Mad Ave at 81 St.

DIAMOND—George. Beloved husband of Janet. Devoted father of Jeffrey and Elaine. Frann and Stephen Paige. Dear brother of Eugene. Services Wednesday 1PM at "Gutterman's" Rockville Centre, L.I.

DRAPER—John. The Officers and Executive Committee of the American Society of Musicologists mourn the passing of our friend and colleague, respected member of the Patricia Wise committee for many years. Our heartfelt wishes to his wife Barbara. He will be missed.

DRUE—Arthur P., 82, March 20th in Kalamazoo, Michigan. Beloved husband of Margaret and father of Charles. Deeply loved father, grandfather, uncle and friend of Philip Dohy, New York, and surgeon of John J. McCloy, and surgeon of William Carrington, Pow Paw, Michigan. Obituaries in Polish, Olce ml.

ANNOUNCEMENTS OF DEATHS MAY BE TELEPHONED TO (212) 354-2000 UNTIL 5:30 P.M. FOR WEEKDAY EDITIONS UNTIL 2:30 P.M. ON SATURDAY FOR SUNDAY EDITION IN NEW JERSEY: (908) 823-3900. WESTCHESTER CO. AND NORTHERN NEW YORK STATE COUNTIES: (914) 948-5300. NASSAU CO.: (516) 747-1000. SUFFOLK CO.: (516) 669-1838. CONNECTICUT: (203) 346-7557. OUT OF STATE TOLL FREE: 800-223-7437.

Deaths

FORBES—Archibald, of Morris-town, N.J., on March 20, 1989. His wife, Mary Legg Forbes, mother of Mrs. Anne Forbes Bowen, York University, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Graduate of Yale University Class of 1917 and Columbia Law School Class of 1922. Served with the U.S. Army in France in World War I. Admitted to the Bar in 1922. Practiced law with the firm of A.S. & W. Hutchins, Forster and Murray, New York City. Founder of the Manhattan Savings Bank and former Chairman of the Board of the Governing Committee of the Brooklyn Bar Association. Husband of the late Mrs. Mary Forbes. Survived by two sons, John and Robert. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GAINES—Morton. Beloved husband of the late Devoted father of Herbert W. and Lawrence H. Father-in-law of Leslie. Loving grandfather of Robert and Jeffrey. "Gutterman-Musician." Hackensack, N.J., Thursday, 10:45 A.M.

GAVIN—Joan M. (nee Burke), of Teaneck, N.J., wife of the late C. Joseph Gavin, mother of Thomas, William and Robert. Survived by her daughter, Sister of Betty Jane Wilker, daughter of Rose Burke. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GOLDBERG—Zelda, 93, of Los Angeles, formerly of New York, on March 20, 1989. Wife of the late Martin. Adored mother of Theodore E. and Robert G. Lewis. Graveside services will be private. Interment at the Garden City Cemetery, 2900 Summer St., Stamford, CT. Thursday, 10 A.M. Memorial service at the Garden City Cemetery, 2900 Summer St., Stamford, CT. 06903.

GLERT—Jessie, on March 20, 1989. Beloved husband of the late Yola, loving father of Eugene, Charles and Suzie. Brother of Muriel Chaslow. Survived by his daughter, Sister of Betty Jane Wilker, daughter of Rose Burke. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GOLDBERG—Zelda, 93, of Los Angeles, formerly of New York, on March 20, 1989. Wife of the late Martin. Adored mother of Theodore E. and Robert G. Lewis. Graveside services will be private. Interment at the Garden City Cemetery, 2900 Summer St., Stamford, CT. Thursday, 10 A.M. Memorial service at the Garden City Cemetery, 2900 Summer St., Stamford, CT. 06903.

GRANOVETTER—Bruce. Beloved husband of the late David. Devoted father of Murray and Sylvia. Survived by his daughter, Sister of Betty Jane Wilker, daughter of Rose Burke. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GRASSMAN—Philip J. Beloved husband of Muriel, loving father of Suzanne Kallman, Barbara Kluger and Erin. Dear brother of Betty Maltz, Herbert and Abe Grossman. Survived by his daughter, Sister of Betty Jane Wilker, daughter of Rose Burke. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GRUNLUND—Arthur. Beloved husband of the late Muriel. Loving father of Muriel, Herbert and Abe Grossman. Survived by his daughter, Sister of Betty Jane Wilker, daughter of Rose Burke. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GRUNLUND—Arthur. Beloved husband of the late Muriel. Loving father of Muriel, Herbert and Abe Grossman. Survived by his daughter, Sister of Betty Jane Wilker, daughter of Rose Burke. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GRUNLUND—Arthur. Beloved husband of the late Muriel. Loving father of Muriel, Herbert and Abe Grossman. Survived by his daughter, Sister of Betty Jane Wilker, daughter of Rose Burke. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GRUNLUND—Arthur. Beloved husband of the late Muriel. Loving father of Muriel, Herbert and Abe Grossman. Survived by his daughter, Sister of Betty Jane Wilker, daughter of Rose Burke. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GRUNLUND—Arthur. Beloved husband of the late Muriel. Loving father of Muriel, Herbert and Abe Grossman. Survived by his daughter, Sister of Betty Jane Wilker, daughter of Rose Burke. Funeral service Thursday, March 23, 1989, at 10 A.M. Interment private. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Morristown Memorial Hospital will be appreciated.

GRUNLUND—Arthur. Beloved husband of the late Muriel